IS GOD GOING TO COME FOR HIS WORLD?

DEAR DIARY, a couple of weeks ago, a nail bomb exploded in the middle of Brixton market in south west London. Brixton market is a place I'm familiar with. I shop there sometimes and I socialise in Brixton too so it's an awful shock to find that some nutter's on the loose leaving nail bombs lying around. The bomb injured about 50 people, including a toddler. What on earth is the world coming to?

Last week, in America, two teenagers were responsible for shooting up a high school. The press called it the Columbine High School massacre. These crazy boys killed a teacher and 12 pupils and then they killed themselves.

Then on Monday, news reader and TV presenter, Jill Dando, was shot dead on her doorstep in Fulham, west London.

Just today, a nail bomb went off at the Admiral Duncan pub in Soho, London, killing a pregnant woman and her two friends and seriously injuring her husband. News so far report that over 60 people have been injured during the attack. The papers are saying that it's probably a hate crime against ethnic minorities and gays because a nail bomb has also gone off in Brick Lane this month which is a Bangladeshi community.

All God needs to do now is send down a swarm of locusts and come for his world because there appears to be a lot of blood lust going around at the moment. There's evil out there and I can almost feel it's breath on the back of my neck.
