A NIGHT AT THE OSCARS

DEAR DIARY, this week, Halle Berry and Denzel Washington came away from the Academy Awards clutching their Oscars. Halle for Best Actress in Monster's Ball and Denzel for Best Actor in Training Day. This was not Denzel's first Oscar. He won an Oscar for Best Supporting Actor in his role in Glory.

Some unsatisfied people complained about the fact that Halle got an Oscar because she had an explicit sex scene with Billy Bob Thornton and Denzel won his Oscar playing a drug dealer and if they had played upstanding roles they would never have achieved their Oscars! I say they won because of their outstanding portrayal of a character. Having said that many actors and actresses give performances where you want to stand on a chair and applaud until your hands bleed and they get nothing. I'm just happy for the both of them that at last they've been recognised by Hollyweird for the thing we know them for and that's their ability to act and act well.

Halle's dress was the bees' knees. She looked absolutely fabulous. Eric Benet has people scratching their heads when we hear about him having a sex addiction and that addiction doesn't include Halle. I don't know what kerb she's going to find but when she finds it, she'll be kicking him to it. You just wait and see! Even I get vex when some geezer doesn't appreciate me and I'm "ordinary". If I were Halle, I'd put a lead around Eric's neck, walk him like a dog and feed left-overs from my plate.

Anyway, well done Halle Berry and Denzel Washington. I hope they've taken their Manolo Blahnik's and Patrick Cox's to kick open a door that's been closed for a very long time.
