VA-VA VOOM

DEAR DIARY, my Godmother must be a fairy Godmother. D'you know why? No, of course you don't. Well I'll tell you why - she gave me a gift which was a voucher to be redeemed at La SENZA!

Now first things first, my knicker drawer is one of the saddest drawers in the history of knickers. It's a dull grey concoction of sadness. Instead of funky, spunky, sultry and sexy, it's bland, comfortable and unimaginative.

I'm ashamed to say that I've lost my mojo and instead of finding it again at Victoria's Secret, Ann Summers and La Senza, I've turned my drawer over to 'Nuns R Us' instead. Not very pretty on the eye, but oh so sensible.

I justified wearing comfortable underwear with the fact that under-wires hurt and thongs are just a tiny piece of material with a tight string cutting into your batty! But I guess we all know anything that a woman wears to make herself look beautiful or sexy has some element of excruciating pain attached to it. High heels, plucking eyebrows, waxing bikini areas, corsets to stop you from breathing, cosmetic surgery - you name it, it bloody hurts.

Anyway, that's all changed now since I made my purchases at La Senza. I'm the proud owner of midnight blue satin and leopard print silk and sun-light yellow lace and polka-dotted frills. I now believe that sensible bra + ugly knickers = a very dull girl. There's nothing quite like knowing that you've got a whole lot of Va-va Voom going on under your rah-rah mini dress!

I spent £122 on underwear and this afternoon, I ordered some more. My underwear now looks better than my outer-wear. In fact, I'm so tempted to walk around the house in just my knickers and bra but I never know when my sons are going to let themselves in the house and God forbid they come in with one of their friends. I think they'd have to have years of counselling to get the image of their mother out of their head with me vacuuming the house wearing burlesque strip-tease lingerie. It's not even funny.
